NEW COURSE FORMATS AVAILABLE FOR 2015-2016

Peirce College is pleased to offer two new course delivery formats that provide even more convenience and flexibility as you earn your degree.

INTRACOURSE FLEXIBLE DELIVERY COURSES allow students to choose on a week-by-week basis whether to take their class online or on campus. While activities and instruction will not be identical, learning outcomes will be the same for both delivery methods. Instructors will teach the course in the online learning environment as well as conducting weekly on campus classes at the time designated in this schedule. Students are not required to participate in both formats but may move freely between online and on campus participation throughout the course. This innovative delivery model provides unprecedented flexibility for Peirce students as they balance their many responsibilities while earning their degree.

WEEKEND INTENSIVE COURSES are considerably accelerated courses that generally take place over three consecutive weeks, with on campus class meetings on Friday evening and Saturday during the day. This format allows students to complete an extra three credits in less than half the time of a traditional course and advance their journey to degree completion.

To learn more about these new course delivery formats, please contact your Academic Advisor at advisingcenter@peirce.edu.

For textbook information, please visit the Peirce College bookstore at www.ecampus.com/peirce.

Each course at Peirce College is identified by a specific course code. The following legend information is provided to assist with course selection.
